

Hurricane: The Miraculous Journey of Rubin Carter

HURRICANE recounts the harrowing, inspiring odyssey of Rubin Hurricane Carter, a black boxer wrongly convicted of three murders, from fierce despair to freedom and enlightenment. On June 17, 1966, two black men strode into the Lafayette Grill, a white redoubt in racially mixed Paterson, NJ, and shot three people to death. Rubin Carter and his young acquaintance John Artis were not those men, but they were convicted of the murders in a highly publicized and racially charged trial. Fiercely outspoken at the best of times, Carter raged against his imprisonment and vehemently refused to subject himself to its regimens. He shunned the prisons food, insisted on keeping his ornate gold watch, and refused to don prison garb, even after a hellish month in the hole, where his own clothes literally rotted off him. He also became the apotheosis of the jailhouse lawyer, poring over the vast transcript of his trial, immersing himself in dense case books, and penning his own legal documents. Over the next decade, Carter amassed convincing evidence of his innocence and the vocal support of numerous celebrities (Bob Dylans song Hurricane was but one example). He was freed pending a new trial only to lose his appeal, to the astonishment of many, and land back in prison. He languished there at his lowest ebb, robbed not only of his freedom, but of his wife (whom he divorced to lessen her share of his torment) and of his eye (lost in a botched prison operation). He avoided almost all human contact, until he received a letter from Lesra Martin, a teenager raised in a Brooklyn ghetto. Against his bitter instincts, Carter agreed to meet with Martin, thus taking the first step on a long, tortuous path back into the world. Martin introduced Carter to an enigmatic group of Canadians, including a strong-willed woman with whom he would commence an intense, unlikely romance. In the process, the Canadians would help wage an international battle to free him. Even as Carter orchestrated this effort from his cell, he embarked on a singular intellectual journey that would lead ultimately to a freedom more profound than any legal authority could grant him. Through an intensive course of study whose texts ran from Victor Frankl to Malcolm X to Hermann Hesse, he gradually raised his consciousness, quelled his rage, and even forgave his captors. James Hirsch has crafted a superb exploration of the nexus of race, sports, and justice. HURRICANE is at once a poignant chronicle of jailhouse redemption, a compelling account of David vs. Goliath court fights, and a revealing history of one of the most dramatic and controversial episodes in the saga of civil rights in America.

HURRICANE recounts the harrowing, inspiring odyssey of Rubin Hurricane Carter, a black boxer wrongly convicted of three murders, from fierce despair to Hurricane: The Miraculous Journey of Rubin Carter by Hirsch, James S. published by Mariner Books [Paperback] on . FREE shipping on - 8 sec Watch PDF Hurricane: The Miraculous Journey of Rubin Carter Free Books by Tiocroul on Summary. HURRICANE recounts the harrowing, inspiring odyssey of Rubin Hurricane Carter, a black boxer wrongly convicted of three murders, from fierce - 21 sec Visit Here <http://?book=B002CMLR9W>. Find helpful customer reviews and review ratings for Hurricane: The Miraculous Journey of Rubin Carter at . Read honest and unbiased product - 8 sec Watch [PDF] Hurricane: The Miraculous Journey of Rubin Carter [Read] Full Ebook by In 1967, the black boxer Rubin Hurricane Carter and a young acquaintance, John Artis, were wrongly convicted of triple murder by an all-white jury in Paterson, Hurricane: The Miraculous Journey of Rubin Carter James S. Hirsch ISBN: 9780618087280 Kostenloser Versand fur alle Bucher mit Versand und Verkauf Cover image for Hurricane : the miraculous journey of Rubin Carter. Title: Hurricane : the miraculous journey of Rubin Carter. Author: Hirsch, James S. Personal Here comes the story of the Hurricane: On June 17, 1966, two men entered the Lafayette Grill in Paterson, New Jersey, and shot four people, killing three. Rubin - 8 sec Read Now <http://?bookB00FJ5EPYI>. In 1967, the black boxer Rubin Hurricane Carter and a young acquaintance, John Artis, were wrongly convicted of triple murder by an